

EDITORIAL

The current issue of the Journal of Anatomical Sciences contains 17 peer-reviewed research articles that cut across different areas of Anatomical Sciences and 47 conference proceedings (oral presentations) of the 16th Annual Scientific Conference of the Anatomical Society of Nigeria held in Calabar in October, 2019. In spite of the lockdown we are currently witnessing as a nation due to Coronavirus pandemic, my team has been able to publish this volume against all odds. I commend their dedication.

I am glad to inform you that online submission of articles and subscription to our journal can now be done seamlessly through our new website. Thus, I encourage our esteemed subscribers and authors to keep patronizing our journal as they are assured of our quality services. We are currently working on indexing of our journal with more reputable indexing bodies in a bid to increase our visibility.

Lastly, on behalf of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Anatomical Sciences, I say thank you to all the Authors of this issue for your patronage and to our respected Reviewers for their selfless service to our journal. Please stay safe!

Prof. G.S. Oladipo

March, 2020.
Editor-in-Chief.

OFFICERS OF THE ANATOMICAL SOCIETY OF NIGERIA

President	Prof. T.B. Ekanem
Vice President	Dr. A. Ayannuga
Secretary General	Dr. A. Danladi
Assistance Secretary	Dr. A.A. Sadeeq
Treasurer	Dr. E.A. Osunwoke
Editor-in-Chief (JAS)	Prof. G.S. Oladipo
Editor (JAS)	Dr. E.J. Olotu